ICE MOVES INTO SCIOTO, CAUSES COLUMBUS FEAR

Olentangy Danger Gone, But Other Bridges Being Menaced
RIVER RECEDING HERE
Traffic In Ohio Above Cincinnati Resumes As Jam Breaks

A heavy snow that began falling in mid-morning Tuesday hurried highway department workmen armed with plows and sand into action. By the middle of the afternoon the snow had provided a traffic hazard.

Moving like some sluggish but irresistible monster, the ice jam which Monday threatened bridges over the Olentangy River, north of Columbus, Tuesday crawled down the Scioto River and endangered spans connecting the southern portions of the city.

Franklin County Engineer Allen Slade particularly guarded the Greenlaw Avenue bridge, where sheet ice prevented free passage of the gorge. Dynamite may be used, he said, if the danger of the huge ice flows is not lessened.

The ice gorge in the Olentangy broke Monday afternoon when the thermometer rose to 55 degrees — within seven degrees of the all-time high for the date. The grinding ice chunks poured into the Scioto and moved down to the Greenlaw Avenue bridge, where the sheet ice again piled them up.

Rising water dammed up by the gorge may lift the forefront of the jam over the sheet ice, Slade said. Meanwhile, he added, all danger to the Olentangy River bridges was passed.

Falling in County
The Scioto in Pickaway County was falling slightly, observers said, and there was no fear expressed that any of the bridges in the county might be menaced by the ice from the Columbus district.

LONDON, Feb. 13—Arrival in the Near East of a huge expeditionary force from Australia and New Zealand gave rise to sensational reports in neutral circles in London today concerning possible Anglo-French action against Soviet Russia.

The reports found no corroborative evidence in the usual official channels but persisted nevertheless.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This dispatch, like all other emanating from London, was passed by the British censor before transmission.)

Such reports had been heard in the past but received unparalleled impetus when troop ships "reaching as far as the eyes could see" arrived in the harbor of Suez with hard-bitten soldiers from "down under."

Neutral circles which expressed firm conviction that Britain and France are planning some action against Russia claimed that the Allies are now satisfied that the U. S. S. R.

is allowing Germany to use Murmansk as a base for naval operations.
In addition, German war materials for use against Finland are being shipped by way of Murmansk, this information declared.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The German government has officially denied giving military aid to Russia against Finland.)

In connection with the use of Murmansk by the Germans, it was recalled that many German merchant ships recalled to port after the outbreak of war, including the luxury liner, Bremen, the New York and St. Louis, put into Murmansk until an occasion presented itself to run the British blockade to German ports.

JAFFA, Palestine, Feb. 13—The first contingent of Australian troops assigned to active duty in the Holy Land arrived at a Palestine camp today.

After five hours in a crowded troop train en route from Egypt, they detrained at a small country station and proceeded to camp in long lines of buses.

LONDON, Feb. 13—Troops of the Australian Imperial force are beginning to arrive at "specified areas" in Palestine. It was disclosed in a Reuter dispatch from Jerusalem today.

These arrivals were revealed following the landing of a huge Australian and New Zealand expeditionary force at Suez.

DANES AFFIRM REDS HOLDING LINE OUTPOSTS

Many Lives Being Destroyed Daily On Mannerheim
SOVIET IN CONFAB
Stalin Calls Chiefs To Talk Over Major Tasks

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 13—Shock troops of the Red army, achieving a measure of success after two weeks of relentless pounding against the Mannerheim Line, have at last succeeded in capturing several outposts of the Finnish front line on the Carelian Isthmus, according to reports received in Copenhagen today.

The outlook for Finland now is "grave," neutral observers said, although conviction was expressed that the Finns would continue to hold out indefinitely.

Reports of the Russian successes were given more credence than claims voiced in Moscow last week that the Mannerheim Line had been "dented" in several places. These claims were ridiculed on two occasions by the Finnish high command which asserted that the enemy had "failed to gain a yard."

3,000 Die Each Day
Numerous counter-attacks by the Finns have failed to dislodge the Russians from the outposts finally taken with a loss of life believed to approximate at least 3,000 men a day since the grand offensive began.

Despite the enormous strength of the Mannerheim Line and the brilliant strategy of its construction, breakdown of the outermost defenses had to be expected sooner or later, according to military experts here, considering the huge numbers of men poured into combat by the inexhaustible Red army.

Estimates in Copenhagen said that since the offensive began, the Reds had lost at least 30,000 men, or perhaps one-third of the five divisions totalling 100,000 thrown into the attack.

Reports from Stockholm today said that Josef Stalin had summoned an emergency war council at the Kremlin, calling into conference such men as War Commissar Klement Voroshilov, Premier and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and General Sjaapnikov, chief of the Soviet general staff.

Alexander Schkartzov, Soviet ambassador to Berlin, also attended the meeting, leading to immediate speculation as to the possibility of further Russo-German collaboration against Finland.

Meanwhile, reports from Oslo said that the Russians had reopened military activity at Nant.

TERRIBLE CONDITIONS EXISTING IN MOSCOW, MANY NEUTRALS CLAIM

LONDON, Feb. 13—According to neutral travelers, present scenes in Moscow resemble those of the terrible famine days of 1932, the London Daily Express said today in a Budapest dispatch.

There are long bread lines in the Soviet capital, the report said, and the population is demoralized by the Soviet "failure" in Finland.

Many Russian military commanders have been recalled and shot, the dispatch stated, adding that foreign diplomats report a conflict is in progress between Dictator Josef Stalin and his immediate assistants.

The Express also said that the "black bourse" exchange rate in September was 23 roubles to the dollar, but now ranges from 450 to 500 roubles to the dollar.

European Bulletins

BERLIN—Any neutral vessel consenting to detention and search by British authorities at any English port will be sunk regardless of whether its cargo is destined for a neutral nation. It was officially stated today. The announcement was made in connection with the sinking of the Dutch steamer Burgerdijk off the southwest coast of England by a German submarine.

LONDON—Renewed Russian pressure on Estonia and Latvia is believed to include demands for additional military and air bases to aid the Soviet campaign against Finland, the London Daily Mail reported from Stockholm today.

PARIS—French dispatches from the Franco-German frontier today stated German troops are moving from Bohemia to Slovakia and that further partisans of former Czechoslovakia President Eduard Benes have been arrested.

LONDON—Rescue of ten members of the crew of the trawler Theresa Boyle, sunk in the North Sea on Saturday by a German bomber, was announced today. A Royal Air Force plane found the crew members after they had been at sea in an open boat for nearly 50 hours. Help was summoned and the men were taken to a port on the northeast coast.

BERLIN—The New Russo-German trade treaty is designed to render both nations independent of imports from the Western powers, the semi-official organ Deutscher Dienst said today.

LONDON—The London Daily Herald reported today that nearly 400 Polish airmen are now arriving in Finland and will shortly be flying British planes against the Soviet air force.

PACT, DICTATED BY STALIN, WINS NAZIS' APPROVAL

BERLIN, Feb. 13—The new Russo-German trade pact encompasses a $600,000,000 deal designed to impress the world with the combined economic might of the two powers, it was stated on reliable authority today.

While all Berlin newspapers devoted their front-pages and banner headlines to announcement of the new agreement, informed quarters disclosed that Josef Stalin himself personally outlined the terms of the pact in a series of consultations with Hans Georg von Ritter, German economic expert.

Stalin made it clear, these informants said, that he was not interested in "the most comprehensive Russo-German economic cooperation possible."

As a result, the treaty was drawn to provide for a commercial turnover between the two nations estimated at 1,500,000,000 marks ($600,000,000).

Under its terms, Germany undertakes, among other obligations, to establish in Russia important industrial plants such as artificial rubber factories, smelters and oil refineries.

In exchange, the Reich will receive huge supplies of grains, minerals, oils, manganese, iron ore, flax, hemp, etc.

CLOTHES WRINGER KILLS BOY BY STRANGULATION

TOLEDO, Feb. 13—Funeral services were planned today for five-year-old David Henry who strangled to death while police tried to free him from an electric clothes wringer in which he had been caught.

Left alone at his home for a few minutes, the boy put his hand into the wringer. His arm was pulled in, and his sleeve caught so tightly it choked him.

David's mother discovered his predicament and when she was unable to free him, called police, the fire rescue squad and a physician. Police were the first to arrive and while they were cutting David's clothes to free his throat, he died.

SAWYER URGES OHIOANS TO JOIN DRIVE FOR F. D. R.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 13—Charles Sawyer, Cincinnati Democratic National committeeman, today asked Ohio Democratic leaders to support President Roosevelt because "we cannot hope to achieve success unless we give our unqualified support to him and his program."

In Columbus for a series of conferences preceding the joint meeting Saturday of the Democratic State Central and Executive committees, Sawyer recommended the inclusion of Sen. Vic Donahey, former Sen. Robert Bulkley, and former Governors James M. Cox, George White and Martin L. Davey in the delegation to the national convention in Chicago.

"I am hopeful that Saturday's meeting," he said, "will result in a conservative and harmonious program."

Adding that the meeting should assure proper representation of party opinion, he declared: "My interpretation of that opinion is well known, as is my personal attitude toward the President. I feel that we cannot hope to achieve success unless we give unqualified support to him and his program."

GALION AUTOIST DROWNS AS CAR GOES IN SCIOTO

DELAWARE, Feb. 13—Trapped in his auto when it crashed through a guard-rail and plunged into the ice-choked Scioto River, George R. Chyba, 43, Galion road machinery salesman, was dead today.

State highway patrolmen and sheriff's deputies, hampered by ice floes, worked for hours to drag the coupe from the river. Coroner A. R. Callender said death was due to drowning.

The accident occurred on Route 37 six miles west of Delaware.

Lincoln Day Dinners Held In Many Parts Of Nation; Aspirants Speak

TAFT, WIFE BOTH ACTIVE

Fear Of Dictatorship Cited By Cincinnati Candidate For Presidency

By International News Service
Republican denunciation of the New Deal blanketed the country today following Lincoln Day speeches by outstanding G. O. P. leaders opening a significant week on the political front.

One former president, five 1940 presidential aspirants, and other Republican luminaries joined in demanding a turn to what they termed the principles of Lincoln—the first G. O. P. chief executive—if domestic problems are to be solved and an American dictatorship averted.

Their oratorical efforts were heard by celebrants at 700-odd dinners commemorating the birth anniversary of the Great Emancipator.

A sixth speaker who is eyeing the White House—Democratic Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana—also took the rostrum to declare that the country is engaged in "economic and social warfare" that will destroy the "soul and moral fiber" of the people. "A bit of the light which was in the mind of Lincoln" is what he (Continued on Page Two)

STORE BURGLARY SUSPECTS TAKEN TO CHILLICOTHE

Miss L. T. Cade, arrested Saturday night with the ring of suspected shoplifters who had been operating in several states, was absolved Tuesday of any implication in the ring's activities. Jack Stevens, the driver of the car, admitted to Miss Cade's lawyer, E. O. Ricketts, Columbus, Police Chief William McCrady and Sheriff's Deputy Earl Weaver that he had been lying in an attempt to involve Miss Cade because of an argument between them when enroute to Detroit prior to their arrest here.

Confessing ignorance of the country, Stevens did not know in what town Miss Cade had been picked up. It was either in High Point, or Winston Salem, North Carolina, he said. In his previous statement Stevens said that she had left Detroit with him and the others and had made the entire trip in their company. To further the implication he also alleged that Miss Cade had left the car on two occasions to help bring back merchandise. (Continued on Page Two)

CAPTAIN'S WIFE AMONG MISSING AS SHIP SINKS

LONDON, Feb. 13—A lifeboat containing the captain of the torpedoed Swedish steamer Orania, his wife, and 12 seamen were still missing today, two days after a U-boat sent the 1,854-ton vessel to the bottom of the North Sea.

The Orania was torpedoed Sunday night—without warning, according to British accounts—and sank in three minutes. A British warship picked up ten survivors and landed them at a North Scottish port.

WAR IN THREE MONTHS, WARNS HAMILTON FISH IF F. D. IS REELECTED

CHICAGO, Feb. 13—The United States will be at war three months after the inauguration if President Roosevelt is reelected or "any of the New Deal internationalists get into office," was the warning left in Chicago today by Rep. Hamilton Fish (R. New York).

"The Democratic party under President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull has become the party of internationalism and is rapidly becoming the war party in the United States," Fish declared at a Republican rally last night.

NAVY BILL HIT BY FUND SLASH

128 Millions Taken From Measure Requested By President

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—National defense felt the sting of the current congressional economy wave today when the house appropriations committee reported the navy's annual supply bill with $128,015,949 lopped off President Roosevelt's budget requests.

Providing funds for operation of the Navy Department for the fiscal year starting next July 1, the reduced bill totalled $966,772,878. Although more than $50,000,000 above last year's appropriation, the measure represented a $11,699,699 reduction below Mr. Roosevelt's recommended appropriations, and $16,316,250 less in contract authorizations.

Effect of the proposed reductions, the committee told the house, will be to slow up the naval expansion program both in the construction of new fighting ships and purchase of airplanes.

At the same time the committee, indirectly endorsing bigger battleships, called on the navy to make building plans for the biggest and best fighting ships in the world.

Funds were recommended for all new ships sought by the navy, but the rate of construction would be slowed down under terms of the bill.

The measure provides $340,371,979 for the naval building program, a cut of $28,628,021 under budget estimates. Funds are provided to lay down 19 fighting ships, including 2 new battleships, 2 aircraft carriers, 2 cruisers, 8 destroyers and 6 submarines. Funds are provided to begin construction on five auxiliary vessels.

In its economy sweep, the committee provided for a naval enlisted strength of 150,000, which is 2,000 less than Mr. Roosevelt asks.

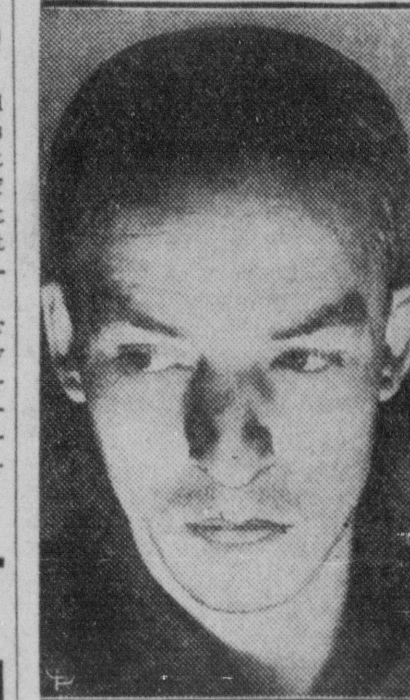

ATHENS COUNTY NEEDY TO FACE FRAUD CHARGES

COLUMBUS, Feb. 13—A thorough investigation into Athens County relief affairs, to be completed about March 1, will result in the prosecution of "10 or 12 chiselers," William Hartsough, investigator in the state welfare department, declared today.

Hartsough said every relief applicant in the county was being interviewed to discover individual needs. He added that he figured 15 percent of the December case load of 1,600 were not in actual need.

The relief situation in the county leaped into the headlines several weeks ago when county commissioners said they had no money for relief and accused Gov. John W. Bricker and welfare department officials of neglecting their obligations to the needy.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 13—Giving Hollywood its biggest surprise of the new year, Artie Shaw, king of swing, and Lana Turner, beautiful blonde movie starlet, were married today at Las Vegas, Nev., after eloping by airplane.

Friends of Miss Turner had regarded her as virtually engaged to Gregson Bantz, prominent young Los Angeles attorney, while the film colony had Shaw paying ardent court to Betty Grable, divorced wife of Actor Jackie Coogan.

Shaw was quoted as saying immediately after the ceremony was performed at 4 a. m. at Las Vegas: "I imagine a few people are going to be surprised at this."

SHORT CIRCUIT BLAMED IN FIRE KILLING CADET

DELAFIELD, Wis., Feb. 13—A short circuit in electric wiring was believed today to have caused a fire which destroyed a St. John's Military Academy dormitory and burned to death a 14-year-old student.

Victim of the flames was Cadet William J. Birk, Jr., son of a Chicago brewery executive. His body was found in the ruins of a bathroom on the third floor of DeKoven Hall.

Col. Roy S. Farrand, headmaster, estimated total damage, including loss of personal effects of the 90 residents of the hall, at $120,000.

All classes were being conducted on schedule today.

DEM CHAIRMAN
AWAITS CONFAB
OF OHIO CHIEFS

J. F. Mader Declares That Muddled Conditions To Be Cleared Up

FACTIONALISM IS HIT

Petitions Of Several Men Being Circulated In Pickaway County

As the date for the joint meeting of the state central and executive committees of the Ohio Democratic party nears, Pickaway County Democrats are maintaining an armed neutrality — a neutrality based on a strong Democratic vote, but maintaining a policy of watchful waiting.

"At present there are too many straws in the wind," John F. Mader, chairman of the Pickaway County executive committee, said. "It is far too early to grasp at a straw and go out on a limb. The best thing to do, and that is the present program of the county committee, is to remain open-minded and neutral in the conflict of factions and 'favorite sons'."

"There will be a much clearer picture of the contending forces and a greater knowledge in which way events will shape themselves following the state meeting on Saturday, February 17," Mr. Mader continued.

Watchful waiting seems to be the policy of both the Republican and Democratic party, the chairman commented. Political activity is pretty much at a standstill with both parties as though they are waiting for something to happen. What that event which will set off the bombshell of political activity is no one seems to know.

Factionalism Must End

"Factionalism will have to be overcome and it is only through unity that the Democrat party can win," Mader said.

The only signs of political campaigning aside from the potential presidential candidates are the flurry of petitions making the rounds.

Petitions of Democratic candidates from outside the county which are being circulated here are those of William J. Kennedy, Cleveland, for governor; Mathew Steele, Wilmington, and John Sweeney, Cleveland, for secretary of state; John Taylor, Salem, and R. M. Winegardner, Washington, C. H., for lieutenant governor; C. L. Chute, New Lexington, for congressman 11th district.

Mrs. Hulise Hays, North Court Street, is a member of the central committee and will attend the closed session of the joint meeting on Saturday.

Pinocchio Takes Over
At Wallace's Bakery

The comic figure of Pinocchio, the little wooden boy who was given life, has taken over the Wallace Bakery Company shop in what is probably the biggest promotion stunt the bake shop has ever embarked on.

The tale of Pinocchio is at present sweeping the country and little miniature Pinocchios are the toys that every imaginative boy and girl are asking for.

Walt Disney who has given life to Pinocchio on the screen has allowed him to become associated with all kinds of products, but none with so great a scope as the Pinocchio Bread which the Wallace Bakery produces.

Along with the Pinocchios the Bakery is giving away a card board circus setup which has proven very popular among the children who are pouring into the shop daily for them. Other characters are being given away to make up a real circus with Pinocchio as the star.

Each character has a recipe printed on the back, and mothers are after the sets as much as the children though they say it is for a different reason. But we doubt it. Mr. Wallace pointed out that 60 characters will comprise a complete circus setup and that every two days a different character will appear in the wrappers of his Pinocchio bread.

The bakery has checked with the Ohio Premium Law and found that there is no conflict with the law in the distribution of the Pinocchio miniatures.

The Bakery is decorated for the event and Pinocchios are to be seen everywhere in the shop. A visit to the Wallace Bakery will convince you that the circus has come to town.

MARXIST GROUP
TO LOSE RIGHTS
IN O. S. U. PLAN

COLUMBUS, Feb. 13 — The Marxist Club on the Ohio State University campus was doomed to oblivion today as the university board of trustees failed to act on an appeal to reinstate the club to campus activity.

The letter containing the Y. M. C. A.'s appeal was placed before the board by President Howard L. Bevis as a matter of routine. By its failure to take action, the board indicated it stood by its decision of last summer disbanding the club.

The club was banned following a trustees' investigation into un-American activities on the campus.

The session of the trustees was the first attended by Dr. Bevis since he became president February 1, and was taken up mostly with routine matters submitted by the president. No indication was given as to the date of Dr. Bevis' formal inauguration, which probably will be deferred for several months.

TWO HIGHWAY WORKERS
BACK IN HOME COUNTY

WASHINGTON C. H., Feb. 13—Politics was beaten by civil service in the cases of two state highway laborers-in-charge, Wiley Arnot and Otto C. Denny, who were transferred to Marion County two weeks ago in what the two men, both Democrats, declare was a deliberate attempt to get rid of them in the highway department in Fayette County.

Employing R. M. Winegardner, who recently announced his candidacy for lieutenant governor on the Democratic ticket, the two men protested to the State Civil Service Commission, with the result that they are back on the job in Fayette County.

According to Winegardner, John W. Wilson, personal director of the State Highway Department, notified Division Engineer J. P. Shumaker that the transfer was without authority and that the men should be certified back to Fayette County.

U.S. ANTARCTIC EXPEDITION OFF FOR YEAR'S SURVEY
SLED DOGS...YEAR'S SUPPLY OF SLOW-BURNING CAMEL
CIGARETTES ACCOMPANY ADMIRAL BYRD TO ANTARCTIC

OFF TO VOLUNTARY EXILE: Right now if you had to choose the one and only brand of cigarette you would smoke through a whole year—you'd make sure you picked the right brand. The men on the Antarctic expedition were in a situation like that. The expedition took Camels! Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd explained: "Slow-burning Camels are a great favorite with us." You, yourself, may never go near the South Pole, but the right cigarette is important to you, too. Camels give you extra mildness, extra coolness, and extra flavor—plus extra smoking in every pack. (See below.)

SMOKERS: SAVE THE COST OF THE STATE CIGARETTE TAX

Smokers who live in communities where certain state cigarette taxes are in effect can save the cost of the tax—and, in some instances, more—through smoking Camels. (See panel at right.) When you are a Camel smoker, you get this unique economy—cooler, milder smoking—the fragrance and delicate taste of finer, more costly tobaccos.

"MORE PLEASURE PER PUFF...MORE PUFFS PER PACK"...

That's how these three members of the U. S. Antarctic expedition tell of the advantages of their favorite cigarette...slow-burning Camels. Richard Moulton, senior dog-driver (center), sums up when he says: "Slow burning is my measure of a milder, cooler, more flavorful smoke. I'd sledge a mile for a Camel." Nothing destroys a cigarette's delicate elements of flavor and fragrance like the excess heat of too-fast burning. Cigarettes that burn fast also burn hot. Camels are slower-burning...milder, mellower, and—naturally—cooler! Try Camels. Find out for yourself how slow-burning Camels give you more pleasure per puff...and more puffs per pack—more actual smoking (see panel extreme right).

POLISH GAME

THERE are still Polish children in the region that was Poland a few months ago. And some of them still play games, in spite of the horrors they have seen and are still seeing.

One of the games reported by a Danish newspaper correspondent is tragically revealing. Instead of "cops and robbers" or "G-man" or "Indians", those Polish kids are playing "execution". In this game there is a firing squad. There is also a victim. The game requires this child to fall to the ground at the proper moment after the "bang-bang" of the other players. Invariably, just before the child who is "it" drops down he raises his arms skyward and shouts, "Poland is not yet lost."

We should imagine Germans would find this game a trifle disconcerting to watch.

PREVENTED FIRE LOSS

LAST year members of a midwestern fire department made inspection visits to many private homes and pointed out fire hazards. Frequently a hazard was one which the home owner had not suspected and might not have recognized without the expert's help.

The department also issued thousands of pieces of literature on fire prevention and gave numerous lectures and radio talks on the same subject.

The results prove the work was worth doing. Fire losses in that city dropped to one-half of the 1938 total.

Most fires are preventable. It's chiefly a matter of recognizing the hazards and doing away with them. Educating citizens in fire prevention may seem less heroic and romantic than dashing to a fire and risking one's life to put it out or save it's victims, but it's just as useful. It is also a great economy in property and human life.

SETTLED GYPSIES

GYPSIES in the Protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia have got to settle down and go to work. A decree which became effective on February 1 requires them to end their nomad life, seek a permanent place of residence and practise a reputable profession. They may follow their own preferences in carrying out these regulations, but those who do not make up their minds soon will be put in the Labor Service and made to work in the fields.

Germany has long been more strict with the gypsies than other European countries. A series of acts against them, each more severe than the one preceding, culminated in 1925 in a law making their presence in any Prussian state punishable by death. This law applied to all gypsies, whether men or women, over 18 years of age.

Perhaps a decree that merely ends

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE ... Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a brilliant morning of Spring, a season that will be really welcome when it finally arrives. The sample was excellent. Stirred the fire, scanned the prints over a cup of coffee and then took off for the post, there to bow to Ex Mayor Graham.

Postmaster Hulse called me in and displayed the new famous Americans series of stamps. Wonder how many persons know the stamp denominations between one cent and ten? That new series displaying engravings of Washington Irving, James Fenimore Cooper, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Louisa May Alcott and Sam Clemens is the most beautiful the federal government ever has produced. Real works of art. Incidentally did note that the government had given the local postoffice operation a rating of 98.2 and the building and grounds upkeep a rating of

98. Anyone who thinks that is not higher than high should see the marks given to most post-offices. Hulse was entitled to my congratulations and received them.

Russ Jones walked into Pop Betz' restaurant and ordered a big, chewy breakfast and sat for a while in pleasant anticipation. Suddenly his hand went to his mouth and he cancelled the order, taking coffee instead. Russ had forgotten his store teeth.

Chatted with H. W. Plum and learned he has received several substantial contributions to the fund intended to aid the Finns. One citizen gave $50 and requested that his name not be used. No, he is not ashamed of sympathy for the Finns, just doesn't care for publicity. Thanks to him, and all of his kind hearted kind.

Up comes the river and we may get a chance soon to see just how those spillways work west of the ville. Did notice several washes in the embankment of the highway, but nothing serious. Met Earl Smith and was his guest at the afternoon Coffee Club, the barrister being entranced by the beautiful Spring weather. Did go with him to Jim Stout's garage to look over that very fine boat of Jim's that will be used as a part of the Canadian club fleet very early in the Summer.

Viewed the loot of that alleged shoplifting gang and still don't know how they got all of it in one automobile. Looked to me almost a load for a ton truck.

Home in the late afternoon for a quiet evening. Read and lazed about the house until a late hour when did figure out a flank movement on the ice box and came away with the spoils of war.

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,

COUGHLIN BROADCAST CANCELED

WASHINGTON — Inside story of the mystery-shrouded cancellation of Father Charles E. Coughlin's recent Sunday broadcast is that his ecclesiastical superiors finally have spoken.

Coughlin has been told bluntly that he cannot continue his racial and political fulminations on the air—and remain a Catholic priest. If he does, he will be unfrocked.

This ultimatum was delivered through his censor by Archbishop Edward Mooney of Detroit, Coughlin's diocesan superior, with the full approval of Vatican authorities. Three developments prompted the Archbishop's firm-handed action.

FIRST and foremost was the fear that the priest's anti-Semitic tirades were being construed popularly as having the approval of the Church. This is a matter of grave concern to most Church leaders, who point out that Coughlin's racial views are most contrary to Catholic doctrine.

SECOND is Coughlin's reputed connection with the Christian Front, some of whose members are now under indictment for conspiracy to overthrow the Government and for stealing government munitions.

THIRD is the fact that he has been guilty of disobedience in connection with his radio activities, specifically with a broadcast on January 28 in which he attacked the religious character of Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy.

Archbishop Mooney had ordered the deletion of certain portions of this speech. Coughlin had agreed to abide by the Archbishop's ruling, but then turned around, defied instructions and delivered the previously censored references to Murphy. On the following Sunday, February 4, Coughlin's entire speech was censored and the priest was forced to cancel it.

The rejected speech, according to inside sources, was another defense of the Christian Front.

The crackdown followed a long controversy within the Catholic hierarchy on the wisdom of taking the radio priest off the air. It is no secret that many Church leaders feared that such forthright action might creat a schism. However, this policy of temporizing has now been abandoned because of the greater harm his superiors believe his radio harangues are doing the Church.

This much is certain: If Coughlin remains on the air in the future, he must steer clear of racial prejudice or else suffer the consequences.

APOSTOLIC DELEGATE

Church concern over Coughlin has disclosed another situation involving the Apostolic Delegate in Washington, Amleto Giovanni Cicognani.

Some of the clerical higher-ups feel that he side-stepped the Coughlin issue for much too long, and favor his recall.

Pope Pius XII, who as papal secretary of state came to the United States in 1936 partly for the purpose of disciplining Coughlin, is known to disapprove the priest's radio talks, and it is reported also that he has been disappointed at the failure of the Apostolic Delegate to take some restraining action.

their gypsying is a milder condition that might have been expected in a Nazi-controlled area.

DIET AND HEALTH

The Good Earth—In Medicine

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"THE EARTH with the seal"—terra sigillata—it was called in the old days, because it was thought to be so valuable that its genuineness was guaranteed.

Kaolin we call it now. It is a common constituent of many soils and is classified as a silicious earth. It is found in many rich deposits in the U. S. and the Orient. It is used in pottery but has been a part of the physician's armory for many centuries. It has a soothing and healing action on the intestines and has been used for many different kinds of intestinal complaints, from Asiatic cholera to our own colitis. Its action is twofold on the inflamed intestine. It mechanically takes up large numbers of bacteria and carries them off, dead or alive; second, it takes up poisons by absorption.

Similar Product

It is best given with a similar product, aluminum hydroxide, because kaolin alone may settle out of suspension and form a hard, clay-like mass. Aluminum hydroxide has greater colloidal activity than kaolin and settles out of suspension less readily. The two together form a light viscid jelly.

This jelly can be used in a great many disease conditions. On account of its soothing properties it is used to paint the throat in tonsillitis and diphtheria. When the earthy mass comes away, great quantities of bacteria come with it. It has a reversible chemical reaction and can act as a weak acid or a weak base. This, along with its astringent action, accounts for its favorable action in cases of ulcer of the stomach.

Useful in Colitis

In colitis, and particularly colitis where ulceration has occurred, it finds its greatest field of usefulness. It reduces pain and colic and, by carrying off germs and poisons, aids in building up the general health. One patient gained 40 pounds of weight within six weeks after the treatment was started. Mucous formation is greatly reduced.

Other treatment is carried out at the same time with these administrations. In ordinary colitis it is not so necessary, but in the ulcerative type bed rest is enforced. A bland but highly-nutritious diet, consisting of pureed vegetables and ground meat, eggs and cream, must be eaten for some time. Sedatives are often necessary.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. L.: "I have been suffering from duodenal ulcer for the past two years. Is ulcer curable by being injected with serum? Will it ever bother me again, if cured?"

Answer—Serum is not a recognized treatment for ulcer. Ulcer is very likely to return, no matter how thoroughly it is apparently cured.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT THEY DRANK the champagne hurriedly.

Cholly sank back on the divan, still holding her glass. Romany put hers down on the coffee table and picked up the long brown envelope. Her hands trembled tearing it open.

Taking out the contract, Romany ran her eyes down the pages swiftly. She sat down suddenly, gasping.

"Hayworth Corn Syrup Products. Dover Hayworth, the third, director of radio."

Cholly's mouth opened stupidly. Romany nodded.

"That's what it says."

Then Romany laughed hysterically.

"Our sponsor! Bless his old bald head. May his bank roll hold out long after he's dead."

The happiness fled from Cholly's face.

She said dazedly:

"I—can't go on the air for Hayworth."

Romany crossed to her swiftly and sat down on the divan.

"And why not, I'd like to know?" she protested violently. "That's the silliest thing I've ever heard."

Cholly's chin set proudly:

"It's like—accepting charity. I won't do it! He's just doing it to help me."

Romany sighed impatiently.

"And what if he is! Don't be a fool, Cholly. Besides, you've signed. You can't get out of it now."

Cholly's chin trembled.

"Oh, Romany, what'll I do? I could—die!"

"You'll go on the air and stop being a nit-wit!" Romany shook her.

"That explains all the mystery. And why Lane's secretary said Brent had recommended you yesterday. Dove knew your crazy pride would keep you from signing up if you knew the Hayworths were sponsoring you."

"It—it's a dirty trick." Tears of anger sprang into Cholly's eyes.

"It's wonderful!" Romany disagreed with her. "My heavens, what's the matter with a man who has millions trying to do a little favor for a girl he's crazy about who hasn't a dime?"

"You wouldn't like it," Cholly quavered. "What will people think?"

"To hades with what people think!" Romany exploded. "If Dover Hayworth likes your playing and thinks you can sell syrup with a program of your own, whose business is it?"

The phone rang. Romany got up to answer it. It was the sponsor himself. She laughed uncertainly.

"Yep! We're right in the middle of the fireworks."

After a few seconds she hung up.

"Dove says," she told Cholly, "he'll sue you if necessary to hold you to your contract. And that as head of the newly organized radio department of the Hayworth company he is coming out right now to get the thing settled."

Suddenly Cholly giggled shakily, her sense of humor coming to the rescue.

"I guess the joke is on me!"

"Serves you right for not reading contracts before you sign them," Romany chuckled, relieved that Charlotte was not going to be too difficult.

When the door bell rang, Romany

"Cholly," he took her hands. "Will you marry me?"

grabbed her hat and coat.

"I'm going for a walk." She started for the back door. You and your sponsor might like to be left alone."

When Cholly opened the door, Dover strode in importantly, thumbs in his lapels. But when the door closed, he swept Cholly into his arms.

"Don't be mad, honey, please," he begged, his lips on her red hair. "I couldn't bear worrying about you any longer. I have so much, and you so little. It was the only way I could see to help you. You're so proud and stubborn."

He was like a small boy pleading for his mother not to spank him for a misdemeanor. Cholly's pride softened. She pulled away and, taking his hand, led him to the divan. Seated beside him she shook her head tenderly.

"I'm not angry now, Dove," she reassured him. "But you really shouldn't have done all this without asking me."

"I was afraid you wouldn't want to help me sell syrup," he grinned, relieved that there wasn't going to be an argument. "You haven't told me how proud you are that I have a job. Me, radio director of Hayworth company. I had a pretty hard time selling Pop on the idea that we'd sell more syrup if we went on the air. But I finally put it over."

"Does your father know who his new pianist is?" Cholly asked then.

"Nope. He trusted my sagacity," Dover chorused.

"It will cause trouble," Cholly predicted darkly, looking worried.

"I don't see why," Dove avoided her eyes.

"Suppose," Cholly sighed, "Pee Wee Tyler should go to your mother and tell her who I am. You know Pee Wee is furious with me because you don't take her out any more. Did you ever think of that?"

"We'll cross that little bridge when we come to it," Dove shrugged. "Could the sponsor have a little kiss, please?"

Cholly reached up and took the tanned face in her two small hands. Her eyes were misty.

"I don't know," she smiled uncertainly, "whether to kiss you or kill you."

Suddenly she was in Dover's arms. There was a violence in his kisses that left her breathless. In a little while she drew away from him, troubled.

"Dove," she said very low then, "you mustn't."

He got up and walked to the window and stood looking out at the white-capped lake. Then he whirled and came and sat down on the floor at her feet.

"Cholly!" He took her hands. "Will you marry me?"

Cholly was taken completely by surprise. She shook her head hastily, leaning away from him.

"Oh, Dove, no! Don't ask me that."

His face had grown white.

"But why, darling? Is it because you couldn't love me? Why shouldn't I ask you to marry me?"

"Don't make me answer you, Dove, please," she begged then. "It wouldn't do, darling. It couldn't work."

His hands gripped her arms until they hurt.

"Look at me, Cholly," he commanded, "and tell me you don't love me. If you tell me that, I'll understand. And I'll never ask you to marry me again."

Cholly's eyes were closed. She begged without looking at him:

"Don't make me say it, Dove! Just believe me when I say I can't marry you. I—just can't."

He asked very low:

"Do you still love Terry O'Rourke?"

"I—don't know," Cholly said with a little sob. "Oh, Dove, I'm sorry we couldn't just be friends! I didn't want this to happen—ever."

Dover made a superhuman effort at control. He released her hands and reached for a cigaret. When he spoke, he said passionately:

"I've fought this thing harder than I've ever fought anything in my life, Cholly. Don't you think I know what we'd face if we got married? But it doesn't matter! You are the only thing in my life that matters. If my father disowned me and dispossessed me, it would mean nothing compared with knowing you were my wife. I'd slave for you all my life."

Cholly opened her eyes, looking at him wonderingly.

"You—love me like that, Dove?"

You really do?"

He dropped his head boyishly and his voice caught.

"Like that." He turned away from her, burying his head in his hands.

Walnut Parent-Teacher Unit Has Founder's Day

Donations Voted To Playground And Health Funds

One hundred and fifty attended the annual Founder's Day celebration observed Monday at the meeting of the Walnut Township Parent-Teacher association at the school. The mothers of the organization were in charge of the program.

A feature of the entertainment was the mothers' chorus which had for the first number two selections, the home part of "Finlandia" by Sibelius, and "Junita," a Spanish melody.

Mrs. Edward Traub's humorous reading was, "Burdock's Goat." An appropriate Founders' Day play, "The Start of the PTA," included in its cast, Mrs. Russell Hedges, Mrs. Ascher Lamb, Mrs. Sam Brinker, Mrs. Stanley Frazier, Mrs. Harold Fisher, Mrs. Arthur Sank and Mrs. Wilbur Huffner.

Mrs. Harold Fisher sang "Somewhere a Voice is Calling" followed by another group of songs by the mothers' chorus. After singing "Massa Dear," by Dvorak, and "Dixie," the group presented a new PTA song, "The Tree of the PTA." The program was closed with two solos by little Rosemary Fisher, "Billy Boy" and "Oh Johnny."

A substantial Founders' Day offering was taken which will be sent to aid in the work of the Ohio PTA congress.

Arthur Sank was in the chair for the business session, Miss Ruth Andrews, secretary, submitting her report. It was announced that the eighth grade won the banner for the month, having the largest number of parents at the meeting.

The association voted to give $100 for playground equipment and $75 for the health program of the school. The bill for lunches of needy children of the school was ordered paid. C. D. Bennett, superintendent of the school, reported several pairs of shoes purchased by the organization for needy pupils.

The seasonal lunch, cherry pie and coffee, was served by Mr. and Mrs. Huffner, Mr. and Mrs. A. Daughters of 1812 Meet

Mrs. John Boggs was in charge of the February session of Major John Boggs Chapter, Daughters of 1812, which was Monday at the home of Mrs. George Roth, North Scioto Street. Twelve members and visitors were present.

Mrs. H. O. Pile read a paper, the subject being "The First Road in Ohio and State Parks in Ohio."

Mrs. Pile said in opening her talk "The first road in Ohio is usually known as 'Zanes Trace.'" Colonel Zane had previously blazed a trail from Pittsburgh to Wheeling, she continued, and seeing its great value, desired a road through Ohio, joining the Ohio with the Ohio, and running through the garden spots of the state. He was ably assisted in his work by his brother, Jonathan, and his son-in-law, John McIntire. This work, she said, was dangerous in many ways and took over two years to complete. Although only a bridge path at first, it soon was in use. Nearly 143 years have passed since its completion.

Now days, Mrs. Pile continued, we are concentrating on the building and beautifying of State Parks of which Ohio has many. In southern Ohio are the Serpent Mound, Seven Caves, Mound City, Ash Cave, Rock House, Old Man's Cave, Logan Elm and many others. The two newer ones, Zaleski and Tar Hollow, represent a vast amount of work in creating new and modern roads in the beautiful Ohio hills.

Frank Albertson, of Hollywood sound stages, will be another guest with the regular company of Bob Burns, the Music Makers and John Scott Trotter's orchestra for the broadcast over the NBC red network at 10 p. m. Her work in the horse opera, "Destry Rides Again," put Marlene Dietrich back in the top-bracket of Hollywood stars overnight. She'll engage in banter with Bing and Bob before a session of warbling in the inimitable Dietrich style.

STARS SAY—

For Tuesday, February 13

A DAY in which new projects are paramount, with the mind and creative abilities high pitched for ambitious projects, is forecast. While these may be endorsed by superiors and employers, there is some danger of overdoing. There may be a change of plans or surroundings but refrain from moves that are too radical.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for change in plans and place. There will be sudden urges to put over ambitious projects, with employers aiding and abetting. But do not attempt to go too far with such initiative and enterprise.

A child born on this day may possess fine creative talents and originality. In its high enterprise early training to avoid overdoing is admonished.

MacPhail Buys Another Outfielder For Brooks

By Bill Corum

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—Larry MacPhail finally has got that hundred thousand dollar outfielder for the Brooklyn Dodgers, but "he" wears four pairs of pants. He also answers to the names of Almada, Walker, Cullenbine and Vosmik. Put 'em all together, mammy, and they would make a nice table of bridge.

I think I get it, however, MacPhail and Durocher are planning to play three outfielders in every position. That should strengthen the Dodgers on the picket line, although they were just as well off when they had "Goody" Rosen. Rosen could cover as much ground as any three of the present crop put together.

MacPhail says he paid $25,000 to the Boston Red Sox for "Honey Boy Joe" Vosmik. Won't Tom Yawkey be surprised when he sees the Brooklyn check? MacPhail buys another "325,000" outfielder every Sunday evening.

Last week it was Roy (Clinging) Cullenbine, the runaway Tiger from the Detroit cage. Cullenbine was the second Tiger the fearless Leland Stanford has caged, the other being Fred Walker, who joined the babbling Brooks late last season.

Previously MacPhail had paid the Browns $25,000 for Mel Almada, or so he said. It may be that when somebody says to Larry: "Think of a number quick," that 25,000 is the first one that pops into his head.

The Browns got a Mexican standoff when they peddled Almada, the Mexican jumping-bean to the Brooklyn carrot-top. They not only got the money, but they didn't have to watch Mel play any more. Even the Browns have got to get a break now and then.

Fred Walker was of considerable help to Durocher's daisies in their last minute drive for third place. But he is not sound of wind and limb, or hasn't been. As for Cullenbine, he'll probably be what "Lippy Leo" hakes him.

Vosmik, the latest addition to the galaxy, is one of Charlie Jamieson's boys from the Cleveland sandlots. My memory is that the wife of one of the owners of the Cleveland club originally picked him for a tryout with the Indians after some sort of sand lot contest, because he was the perfect arrow collar type. Which he is.

With one Joe Medwick, they throw in a prize popcorn box filled with such outfielders, plus gold watches and chains. Still, now that I am through joshing on the level, I'm convinced MacPhail is on the right track in Brooklyn. On the law of averages alone, Larry is bound to hit "bingo" eventually, and a little bingito in the outfield is all Brooklyn needs to make it a red-hot contender in that ups-a-daisy National League race.

Dean, who received $20,000 last year, reported Wrigley "told me if I win 20 games he'll give me $25,000. Or if I win 15 he'll give me $15,000. But he can't put it in writing and the contract he wants me to sign is for $10,000 and I don't like that."

Charles F. Drake, assistant to Wrigley, said the Cubs' president admitted to his $155,000 pitcher that a 22-game winner would be worth $25,000, but said no definite offers were made.

And there the matter rested, with Dizzy threatening to quit baseball and retire to the farm rather than accept $10,000.

INDIANA TEAMS RETAIN PLACES

Purdue, Hoosiers Win In Big 10; Buckeyes Fall Before Hawkeyes

CHICAGO, Feb. 13—Purdue and Indiana remained bracketed at the top of the Big Ten basketball standings today by virtue of their victories last night over Chicago and Michigan, respectively.

Coach Branch McCracken used his entire squad of 21 players against Michigan, but the Hoosiers still ran up a 57 to 30 score. Purdue beat Chicago 52 to 30, the sixth consecutive conference defeat for the Maroons.

Illinois moved into undisputed possession of third place by defeating Northwestern 35 to 33. Capt. Bill Hapac dropped the winning field goal in the final 50 seconds of play.

Back of Illinois, Northwestern, Michigan, Iowa and Ohio State were tied for fourth place with three games won and three lost each. Iowa moved up by beating Ohio State, defending champions, 43 to 33.

COOPERATION OF MERCHANTS URGED IN BUSINESS CENSUS PLANNED BY U.S.

C. OF C. ASKED TO NAME GROUP TO BE ADVISORY

City, County To Be Ranked For Time To Come After Work Is Completed

INFORMATION IS SECRET

Mattox Writes To Parrett That Questioners Seek Important Facts

The Circleville Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday, was asked by the Department of Census, Bureau of the Census, to cooperate in the business census which will soon begin. The letter signed by J. H. Mattox, supervisor for the 11th Ohio district, declared that aside from the legal compulsion to respond to the inquiries of census enumerators, community pride should motivate every business man in Circleville to cooperate fully in the census so that the city will be classified in the highest possible rank as a commercial center.

"Naturally," Mr. Mattox wrote, "I have a personal desire to see every city in this district in its rightful place on the business map."

Advisors Urged

The Chamber of Commerce is urged to designate an advisory committee to work with the census takers for the best interests of the city.

Mack Parrett, Jr., to whom the correspondence was sent, said that he would see that the matter reached Ray E. Rowland, president, and the board of directors and that he contemplates that the organization would go along with the Census department in a cooperative manner.

Mr. Mattox called attention to the bulletin issued by the Chillicothe Chamber of Commerce which cited to all businessmen the importance of cooperation. This bulletin declared that the city and county would be ranked for years to come on the basis of the record compiled within the next few weeks. "A thorough and accurate report from every business establishment, manufacturing plant, contractor, large or small, will give the answer," the Chillicothe bulletin declared.

Privacy Not Violated

It went on to say that "every businessman is urged to cooperate with the census enumerators. They are not coming to pry into private affairs but to get fundamental facts that may help to guide the future of your business."

Mr. Mattox stated that the bureau is not interested in how much profit any store made, nor in data concerning any individual.

Bruce Wilson of Chillicothe, assistant to Mr. Mattox, said Tuesday that he had left application blanks with Postmaster Hulse Hays which persons seeking enumerators' jobs may obtain.

HIT-SKIP AUTO FATAL TO TWO OHIO ATHLETES

CLEVELAND, Feb. 13 — Two high school athletes were dead today and five others were suffering injuries received when they were struck by a hit-skip motorist in suburban Euclid last night.

A manslaughter charge was placed against Anton Kucich, Jr., 26, a WPA worker, who, Euclid police said, was driver of the car that struck the boys as they were walking in a group in front of the Euclid police station.

The dead were John Montana, 16, substitute center on the Euclid Shore football team and substitute basketball player, and Arvine Thompson, 16, halfback, track man and basketball player.

Injured were Fred Lipovec, 17, possible skull fracture, brain concussion, fractured left leg and severe laceration; Joseph Bergoch, 16, possible skull fracture, fractured left leg, lacerations and shock; Arthur Bolon, 17, fractured left leg, and John Tarantino, 15, lacerations.

The boys were returning home from basketball practice at Euclid Shore and were walking in a group in the street when Kucich's car ploughed into them and failed to stop, police said. Kucich was arrested at his home, a short time later after police identified parts of his car left on the scene of the accident. He was taken to county jail.

ROTARIANS TO HEAR OF PROBLEMS OF FARMERS

Cornell Copeland of the Federal Farm Security Board will address the Thursday Rotary Club luncheon on some of the phases of the farm problem and the state of agriculture in the national economy.

Dr. Edgar Dale, Bureau of Educational Research, Ohio State University, who two weeks ago spoke to the Rotary Club on the value and effect of movies submitted a questionnaire to Rotary members asking them what they considered the ten best pictures of 1939.

The result of the poll is as follows: Goodbye, Mr. Chips, Mr. Smith Goes to Washington, Drums Along The Mohawg, The Mikado, Wizard of Oz, Stanley and Livingstone, Idiots Delight, The Women, Golden Boy, The Old Maid.

Nicholas R. Doman, Budapest, Hungary, will be the final speaker Wednesday on the club's Institute For Better International Understanding.

O. S. U. FRESHMAN MISSING

COLUMBUS, Feb. 13—The disappearance of Daniel Becker, 19-year-old South River, N. J., freshman at Ohio State University was reported to Columbus police today.

School officials said that Becker left a note indicating he might go to California. He had approximately $100 with him. The officials added that he had no scholastic difficulties and they could advance no reason for his disappearance.

FORMER JUDGE TELLS KIWANIS OF DIVORCE LAW

Circleville Kiwanians enjoyed an excellent address on "Divorce Law" Monday evening when former Judge E. A. Brown was in charge of the program. The judge spoke from his many experiences when on the Probate Court bench during which time that court heard divorce cases.

He cited the 10 grounds for divorce in Ohio and lamented the fact that the state had so many. The most prevalent cause for divorce is neglect of duty, which the ex-judge said cover a multitude of complaints.

The club also heard a request by Renick W. Dunlap, Pickaway Township, member of the Kiwanis International committee on agriculture, that housewives be urged to use more lard and to eliminate substitutes in an effort to increase the hog market price. A donation of $25 was voted to the high school band uniform fund.

The club, meeting in the American Hotel "Hurricane," received an invitation from the Lancaster club to attend its ladies' night program on February 22, the evening to include a dance and entertainment.

Soon the spring plowing will begin. Maybe that's why so many golf clubs' greens committees are beginning to look worried.

VOICE...of the...PEOPLE

To the Editor

Circleville Herald:

The Campaign for funds where-with to purchase fifty new uniforms for the members of the Circleville High School Band is something that should be of interest and importance to everyone interested in the City's reputation as well as the individual members of the high school organization.

Our high school, under Mr. Charles F. Zanglein's exceptionally able leadership, has developed a musical organization that compares very well with anything offered by larger and better financed schools.

In an open competition, our boys and girls can hold their own with other cities of the state.

This is a fine thing for Circleville, something we can all be very proud of, and something we should all assist as much as we personally can.

The need for proper outfits is apparent, getting the new outfits is something we should all cooperate to make possible.

No single person or group of persons should foot the bill—the band is a community enterprise and must be community-supported.

Every contribution, no matter how small, will help the cause along—and every ticket that is purchased will be that much more for the fund. Seventy cents of each ticket's dollar will go to the Band Uniform fund. So buy tickets for yourself — and buy tickets for your friends. It's for a fine Circleville cause.

Fred C. Clark.

LESSON FOR THE WORLD NEW YORK.—And speaking of war, Frederick E. Crane, former Chief Judge of the State Court of Appeals, wants to know: "If 8,000,000 people in New York City, of all nations and creeds, can live happily and peacefully together and say or write what they please, why cannot others do it too?"
